Summer Fellowship in Korean Studies

The Korea Society's Summer Fellowship in Korean Studies program is designed to help educators integrate Korean subjects into their curricula by taking fellows on a two-week study tour of Korea from June 24–July 10, 2009. . The program includes lectures and discussions on Korean language, history, culture, art, politics and economics. Also included are opportunities for on-site study of locales of historical and contemporary relevance. During the final week, participants will be given time for independent research and exploration. The participants in past programs have found that the program offers an unparalleled learning experience as well as a unique opportunity for extensive travel in Korea.

Deadline: Varies

Maximum Grant: N/A

This grant applies to Hanja because our vision is to be a leader in creating an accepting community of individuals who are well-educated in three cultures, one being Korean. Sending teachers from the state to learn about Korean culture will allow them to promote recognition and understanding of Korean culture during classes, just like with math, science, and English.
