Japanese Cultural Festival

Learn more about Japan and its culture through hands on experience

Pawtucket, RI—On Saturday, July 26, 2014 from 4:00-8:30pm, people interested in Japanese culture will walk Slater Park and find booths dedicated to food, dance, music, clothing, and more, where they can explore what they want without lectures or books.

The upcoming festival will have school teachers and former residents of Japan running booths of their choice. Families are invited to come together as there will be activities for both young and old. The main goal is to celebrate and learn about a culture sometimes forgotten.

WHO: Anyone
WHAT: Cultural Festival
WHEN: Saturday, July 26

WHERE: Slater Park

Hanja, founded in 2012, exists to promote cultural literacy in the Chinese, Korean, and Japanese cultures specifically. Events are hosted by Hanja for the Rhode Island community to encourage people interested in the cultures to come and discuss subjects of interest with peers. Other than events, Hanja also teaches about the cultures' items of interest online to reach a broader range of people.
